Dr. Glenn D. Price has earned an international reputation as a leading conductor and educator through his experience conducting student, community and professional symphony orchestras and wind ensembles in over 30 countries. A graduate of the Eastman School of Music, his profession as a noted percussionist gradually yielded to his career as a conductor, which included studies at the Toho Gakuen School of Music in Japan and the Tanglewood Music Center in the U.S., as well as in Europe and Russia. Active as well as a composer and author, his comprehensive text on the art of conducting, titled The Eloquent Conductor, has earned highly positive critical acclaim. His distinguished performing, teaching and conducting career has included full-time positions in Canada and the U.S., most notably as Professor of Music (Emeritus) at the University of Calgary, as Director of Wind Studies at the University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music (CCM), and currently as the Director of Performing and Visual Arts at the California Institute of Technology (Caltech).

The Caltech Orchestra comprises select Caltech students, plus affiliated community members largely drawn from Caltech's faculty, staff and alumni, including the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL). Performing a wide range of repertoire, from classics to music of today, the orchestra regularly combines with the Caltech Choir, and features student soloists through its annual concerto competition.

Performing three pairs of concerts per academic year, it offers the Caltech community a rich musical experience, presented by performers who are highly accomplished in both science and music. Concert listings for the Orchestra, and all of the Performing and Visual Arts groups at Caltech may be located at: pva.caltech.edu.
